

ODD FELLOWS HOSTS AT BIG ANNIVERSARY PARTY

"There was a sound of revelry by night." That was on Thursday last, April 25, when the local Odd Fellows "knew a party" celebrating the completion of 121 years of service by their Order. Odd Fellows, Rebekahs and friends to the number of 40-odd gathered for the occasion, and mirth, merriment and mix-ups were the order of the evening.

The mirth and merriment was produced by the programme — Chinese checkers, quiz, etc. — with prizes for all, while the mix-up came when the said prizes were opened at the supper table. The "gentleman's center piece" and lady's center set were appropriate enough to their lucky winners, but the young lady — no names, please! — who drew a baby's filling station, ready for use, was on a par with another young lady who received a slightly odoriferous sash or the man who was the recipient of a large-size bar of laundry soap. However, it was all in fun and the inappropriate gifts added no little to the hilarity of the occasion.

Shortly before midnight the party sat down (with some trepidation) to a luncheon which was provided by the Odd Fellows themselves, their wives, as guests of the occasion, being forbidden to even wash the dishes. As all the participants were able to be up and around next morning, we can only conclude that the luncheon was better than had been anticipated; indeed, we suspect professional assistance.

During the supper period, Vice Grand J. Davidson, in the absence of Noble Grand Ott, made a presentation.

Start Season's Road Programs

Immediate attention will be given at the opening of the spring road construction season to projects which were unfinished last fall, according to information which officials of the Alberta Motor Association have received from the provincial government.

One of these will be the completion of reconstruction of the Jasper highway west of Edmonton, while another is finishing of the highway from the vicinity of Medicine Hat to Walsh, on the Saskatchewan border.

Work on the Jasper highway, west of the city, is to be completed as speedily as possible, while it is planned there will be no major reconstruction after July 1 on this route, in view of the anticipated rush of motorists to take advantage of opening of the new Jasper-Lake Louise scenic highway.

Surfacing of the Red Deer-Crossfield section of the No. 1 highway also is on this year's program, while extension of work on the St. Paul road is also planned. Other projects are planned for southern Alberta.

In order to obtain federal funds of upwards of $2,000,000 to supplement the provincial government's appropriations, the minister of public works, Hon. W. A. Fallow, is expected to confer with officials at Ottawa shortly.

Days When Fabulous Filmdom Was Young

Dreams of films—every one of them a hit—contributed the best entertainment elements to the masterful making of "Hollywood Cavalcade," the fictionalized history of motion pictures and their development from the days of custard pie tossing, Keystone Cops and the first super-spectacles through the birth of sound.

An engrossing story of Hollywood, its fancies and foibles, this week end picture is translated into terms of the lives of its characters, each of whom is an adroitly blended legendary composite of many widely-publicized, easily-recognized celebrities who have left their imprints upon the pages of filmdom's chronicles.

Alfred Hayes, manifesting a flare for comedy which will further crystallize her place among current top-notchers occupies the place of honor in a fine cast.

Technicolor adds materially to the feature's high rating.

tion to a departing member, Brother E. R. Erickson, who leaves soon for his new home at Jasper. The gift was a lovely pin-up lamp and Brother Erickson, in his reply, expressed thanks on behalf of himself and Mrs. Erickson and assured the assembled Odd Fellows that it would have a prominent place in their new home.

Following the supper period and a few dances the crowd dispersed to their respective homes.

C.G.I.T. Celebrates 25th Anniversary Here

With members of the senior and junior groups as their guests of honor the local intermediate C.G.I.T. group held a birthday party on Wednesday evening last to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the founding of their organization.

Everyone present was arrayed as a child of six years or less and after a programme of games and singing the prizes were awarded for the best costumes, these going to Gladie McNelly, Norene Glass, Berta Nordstrom, Miss Darrall, Lindell Freed, Doreen Adams, Glenn Brunker, and for the best-behaved child the prize went to Marjorie Coehel. Lunch was then served, the birthday cake holding the centre of interest. Miss Darrall, leader of the C.G.I.T. group had the honor of cutting the cake.

Singing of "Tape" brought a happy gathering to a close.

Just as soon as the roads are available for travel, Mr. R. Crowther, of the bank staff, plans to move his family to Canmore, to which place he has been transferred.

Local "P.T." Class Gives City Display

On Wednesday last, the girls and boys of the Wainwright Youth Training Group had the privilege of witnessing and taking part in one of the most spectacular performances ever displayed in the Edmonton Arena.

More than 2,000 spectators watched this first display of mass gymnastics, with 500 or more trainees from Edmonton and district taking part.

Wainwright was the most distant point represented.

Under Instructor Hedley Abbott, 18 boys and girls from town motored up and were an equal match for the other groups. In fact, in some of the events they surpassed their competitors.

The girls took part in pyramid building, tumbling and folk dancing, while the boys displayed their prowess in vaulting, tumbling, games, springboard work and folk dancing.

It is interesting to note here that the local instructor, Mr. Abbott, was chosen to lead the entire gathering in a fine display of folk dancing.

The local Group wishes to take this opportunity of thanking Mrs. S. Ely, Mr. Howard Johnson and Mr. H. Lissen, who so willingly donated their cars and services for the trip.

Those taking part in the display were: Elsie Ford, Margaret Abbott, Joyce Revell, Eleanor Fish, Ellen Forster, Babe Forster, Beatrice Carroll, Dolores Glass, Sarah Holt, Lily Johnson, Margaret Carsell, Doris Johnson, Doug Buchanan, Bill Coleman, Bill Sparling, Hedley Abbott, Harold Lissen and Earl Foster.

LUXURIES TABOO

Windsor—Those who see the war as a means of increasing their incomes so that they may purchase more luxuries have the wrong conception of Canadianism, declared Graham Towers here recently. "In the long run," he said, "citizens of this country will learn that it is in their best interests to do without certain extras that might seem attractive. If they practice this restraint now it will ease conditions of the war's aftermath."

The Marines Have Landed!

British marines, such as the ones pictured here manning an anti-aircraft gun aboard H.M.S. Repulse, are reported to have landed and gained control of the Norwegian airport of Narvik. Led by the great battleship Warspite, British naval craft penetrated Narvik fjord, sinking seven Nazi destroyers, and landed marines. German troops in the seaport are reported to have fled to the hills.

Young Lad Passes After Long Illness

It is with the deepest regret that we report the passing of Kenneth Earl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard McNern, on Tuesday last.

The young lad, who had been sick since last January, was a patient little sufferer, and is going to be sadly missed by his many school mates and friends.

Brought in to hospital near the end of February, Kenneth failed to make any marked progress, and three weeks ago he was taken to Edmonton, where he passed away as stated above in the Royal Alexandra Hospital.

Kenneth was born in Wainwright on December 10th, 1930, and was thus just past 9 years of age.

Besides his loving mother and father, there are four sisters and a grandmother left to mourn the loss of this promising young life. Mr. and Mrs. McNern were bereaved a few years ago by the death of an older son, which makes this loss doubly felt.

To the sorrowing family and other relatives and friends throughout the district, The Star joins with their readers in offering condolences.

THE FUNERAL

was held from St. Thomas' (Ang.) church on Saturday afternoon, Rev. R. Bosa, rector, conducting the services which took place at 2.30.

The pallbearers were Bob Roberts, Earl Plinton, Gerald Teeter and Norman Glass, and McLeod's Funeral Parlor had charge of the arrangements.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Richard McNern and Family wish to thank their many friends and neighbors for their sympathy and floral offerings in the loss of their beloved son, Kenneth.

EARL OF ATHLONE ARRIVING SOON

Ottawa.—The Earl of Athlone, soon to come to Canada as governor-general, succeeding the late Lord Tweedsmuir, is busily engaged in preparations for his departure from the United Kingdom. It was announced from Government House last week.

Date of his arrival has not yet been announced but it is believed it will be sometime in June.

Already, it was said, Lord Athlone had received a number of telegrams from organizations in Canada inviting him to attend various functions or to signify his interest in their work. He has requested such communications be addressed to Government House.

Little Change for Summer Schedule

The usual summer schedule of the C.N.R. times of trains at Wainwright, which went into effect on Sunday last, has made but little change in the former times of arrival and departure here.

Trains Nos. 1, 3 and 4 will be operated on the time schedule which has been in effect all winter, which is as follows:

No. 1 (flyer going west, arr. 3.15 a.m.)
No. 3 (local) arr. 4.00 p.m.

No. 4 (local) arr. 11.35 a.m.
In every case the departure time is set for ten minutes later.

In the case of Train No. 2 (flyer going east) this train will leave Edmonton at 9.25 p.m. instead of 9.05 p.m. and arrive at Wainwright at 12.10 a.m. (midnight) leaving at 12.30 a.m.

Merchants Decide Holiday Question

A meeting of the merchants of the Town of Wainwright was held in the council chamber of the Town Hall on Friday, April 26th, when there was a representative attendance of interested parties.

Mr. W. E. Washburn was elected as chairman of the meeting, with Mr. Carl Stafford as secretary.

Town by-law No. 333 (1938) was read and came in for considerable discussion. Several suggestions were put forward, including proposals to observe the half-holiday all year round; to observe it from January 1 to September 1; and from January 1 to August 15. The latter proposal was the one which finally received the support of the meeting and so, commencing May 1, all stores and business places in town will close at 1 p.m. on each Wednesday, except for the weeks in which a Dominion holiday falls, when they will remain open all day Wednesday.

Mr. Hannah offered the suggestion that all stores close at 4 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday, the hour of closing on Saturday night to be left to the discretion of the individual merchant.

A committee of three — Messrs. Schlitt, Hannah and Stafford — was appointed by the chairman to interview Mr. J. A. MacKenzie re drafting of a proper petition to be presented to the Town Council, with a view to obtaining exemption of barbers and beauty parlor operators from the provisions of the by-law.

Our farmer readers are asked to take note of the above and govern themselves accordingly. On and after May 5th, all stores will close at 1 o'clock on Wednesday afternoons — without fail.

Precipitation Report No. 1 For 1940

(This report of records from 284 governmental and Searle Rain Gauges)

The wheat crop of Western Canada is now being seeded, and the harvest next fall will depend mainly upon the amount of moisture available to the crop.

This moisture includes the rains which fell last fall — which form the reserves available to carry the plant over in times of stress, and available also to increase the yield per acre — and includes naturally the rains which will fall during the growing season, from April 1st until the time of harvesting about August 1st. (Snowfalls which occur between November 1st and April 1st, while helpful in filling up sloughs and making water available for human needs and for livestock, have not been found, as a rule, to be of much value as far as producing crops is concerned.)

The precipitation which occurred last fall, in terms of the normal or average, in Alberta was 78 per cent., in Saskatchewan 48 per cent. and in Manitoba 80 per cent., or averaged together for the three provinces and weighted for wheat acreage, the moisture reserve available for the present crop on April 1st was only 62 per cent. of normal.

Better than average precipitation, however, has occurred from April 1st to this date, so that the situation has improved, and today is as follows: In Manitoba the total moisture available to the crop is now 81 per cent. of normal, in Saskatchewan 57 per cent. and in Alberta 101 per cent., or averaging the three provinces together and weighting for wheat acreage the combined moisture condition is now 75 per cent. of normal, or still considerably below average.

This deficiency can, of course, be made up with better than normal rainfall between this date and harvest time, yet while this could happen, and actually has occasionally happened in the past under similar circumstances, what can be said is that the outlook, at the moment, is for a less than average yield per acre being harvested next fall.

Mr. Phil Beaupre is back again after a visit at Legal with relatives.

Heinrich Himmler, chief of the dreaded Nazi Gestapo, is reported to have been shot in the mouth in a Copenhagen street shortly after the Nazi invasion of Denmark. The report, which originated in Sweden, did not state whether Himmler had been killed or merely wounded. Berlin denies the report.

OFFICIAL COUNCIL MINUTES VALE No. 392 MUNICIPALITY

A regular meeting of the Council of the Municipal District of Vale, No. 392, was held in the municipal office on Saturday, April 20th, 1940, commencing at 1.30 p.m. All councillors were in attendance, with Reeve Castle presiding.

Moved by Coun. Jerram — That minutes of regular meeting held on March 19th be adopted as read. — Carried.

Moved by Coun. Nelson — That the S.W. 24-42 be leased to S. E. Bishop on the usual crop share terms of the District. — Carried.

Moved by Coun. Treffer — That from the 1st day of May, the $200.00 per month relief allowance to C. McPeak be made payable to Miss Patricia Begin. — Carried.

Moved by Coun. Castle — That the matter of leasing the N.W. 22-41 be left with Coun. Currier and that settlement for the 1939 rental be arranged for. — Carried.

Moved by Coun. Currier — That the several notifications of the M.H.O., Dr. Ayleworth, relative to the present epidemic of mumps, be received and filed. — Carried.

Moved by Coun. Jerram — That the Secretary's action relative to instructions given Dr. York, of Provost, pertaining to the Herman Gelp child, be endorsed by Council. — Carried.

Moved by Coun. Nelson — That the S.E. 21-43 be leased to L. W. Davis, for a three-year term, at a yearly rental of a sum equivalent to the current taxes. — Carried.

Moved by Coun. Currier — That correspondence relative to acreage bonus in Township 42, Range 6, be received and that on receipt of formal notice from Ottawa of "No award," steps be taken in the form of a protest. — Carried.

Moved by Coun. Treffer — That the following allocations for public works (Continued on Page Four)

Y.P. Union Holds Recreational Meeting

The regular meeting of the United Church Young People's Union took the form of a social evening on Wednesday last, under the leadership of Bert Bates, recreational convener.

Opening with a hearty sing-song, various stunts, contests and games were enjoyed, the entertainment winding up with a dandy lunch.

About 20 of the Young People were present for the occasion.

License Checkup Taking Place Now

We have been asked by Sergeant Collett to inform our readers that a checkup will be made on car, driver's, truck, chauffeur's and radio licenses early in May. All who require these licenses are urged to see that they are obtained before that time, so as to avoid legal action.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Wm. J. Reynolds and Family wish to thank their many friends for the kindness extended to them during their recent bereavement. They wish to especially thank those friends who, in deference to Mr. Reynolds' request for no flowers, gave them instead wonderful substantial comfort.

Bargain Fares Listed for May

Winnipeg.—From the lakehead and western Canada across to the Pacific Coast, bargain fares to eastern Canada will go into effect over Canadian National lines beginning May 18, with a return limit of 45 days.

These fares will be on sale from all western line stations between May 18 and May 29, which gives wide leeway for those who plan spring holidays on business trips to the east, according to announcement by R. Creelman, passenger traffic manager.

These fares are good for either coach, tourist or standard travel and passengers holding standard class tickets, via Canadian lines, may be routed via the Great Lakes on the usual payment for meals and sleeping accommodation aboard ship.

Half fares arranged for children and "stop-overs" will be allowed.

Similar fares, from eastern to western Canada, hold the same time limit during the same period of sale.

Map Prepared for Alberta Highways

Containing more information and more complete data than any of its predecessors, the 1940 Alberta highways map was issued Wednesday by Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works. About 20,000 copies of the map have been printed and are available for distribution.

The map is in colors and contains a table of distances between all principal points of the province. Cities and towns are listed alphabetically. Pictures of well known Alberta tourist resorts are shown. There is a brief description of principal historical sites of the province. The Dominion national parks are included, as well as all highway junctions between Edmonton and the United States. The Big Bend highway also is shown. These and many other features make this new map the best so far issued by the department, according to officials.

Impressions of Britain in Wartime

By "Neutral Observer"

If one were asked what was the most outstanding psychological change that had taken place in England after the first six months of the war, one would find no difficulty in giving a quick and sure answer: It is that the war which has so far failed to come to the Western Front has come to England. The curious conflict which has barely reached the armies has become part and parcel of the mental and emotional life of the English people.

Half a year ago, the war with all the great changes it wrought in the life of the country, with all the hardships and complications it entails, with the many duties and obligations it imposes on the citizen, the fact of military and political importance. It was primarily a problem of the Government and of the various branches of the Services. The people as a whole sanctioned it, approved it, but they were not touched by it. The hearts of the average man and woman in Britain too ardently desired peace to be able to accept war and make it their own.

Now, after six months, an observer of England can say with certainty that the war has come to occupy a place in the hearts of Englishmen. The conflict is no longer merely a matter of regulations pertaining to black-outs, evacuation, rationing and other discomforts of war; it has touched the heart-strings of the people; it has awakened profound interest; it has stirred deep emotions of love and pride; it has become the daily affair and concern of the man in the street and the woman in the house. It has become part of English life, not only of its history.

One scene of the first days of the war which constantly recurs to the mind vividly illustrates this remarkable change. It was one of the memorable Sunday when Mr. Chamberlain, in his famous broadcast, announced that a state of war now existed between England and Germany. I found myself then in a small cottage in a Sussex village. It was one of the numerous English country homes to which London children and families had been evacuated. The small sitting-room was crowded with silent, eager listeners. There was the host, his wife, their two boys, three evacuated children with their parents and a young woman who had brought a party of evacuated children to the village. The usual English reserve was fully maintained, despite the solemnity of the occasion.

The only face in the room which gave any evidence of the effect produced by the historic event that was being enacted before us, was that of our hostess. She was a pleasant middle-aged woman with the open, wind-swept face of the English country folk; there was a mellowness and maturity about her features that reminded one of her orchard on that warm early September morning.

It was obvious that she was deeply stirred by the event. She remembered to her last great war. She had lost her father in it; her family in a small town in the North was broken up; she came South in search of a new home and had found it here. She married, brought up a family and lived quietly and peacefully. And now here was the holocaust again, and all that was dear and beloved was threatened once more.

Must she, like her mother, also go through the ordeal of war? Must every generation of men and women be uprooted and cast about by storms such as this? And when the solemn voice over the radio spoke of the "evil things" which England had at that moment challenged to mortal combat, tears appeared in her eyes and she made no effort to suppress them. There was something so simple and honest in the grief of this pleasant woman, wife and mother, that it could not but grip the heart of everyone who noticed it.

Later I realized that on that Sunday morning, in that small cottage in Sussex, I had been privileged to see a small cross-section of English life and sentiment as it was in those early weeks of the war. Probably the overwhelming majority of the English people thought and felt about the war then as did our hostess. The prevalent mood was one of terrible regret that the ordeal should have to be experienced all over again.

That mood and that scene seem so remote now as to be almost history. Regret, sorrow, grief, still are met with, but they are not the prevailing sentiments in present-day England. Other, stronger emotions have taken their place. Probably first among them is an ever-growing anger with Germany, a feeling such as one has against a band of hoodlums who continue to disturb the peace of the world. With this is mingled a stubborn determination that these disturbers must be punished and taught once and for all that international hoodlumism will no longer be tolerated.

To these is added a feeling that the present struggle which has been forced upon England must be brought to a successful conclusion, and there is a complete confidence that this can and will be done. There is also a feeling of exuberance of youth and strength in the land such as one has not been accustomed to associate with the sedate English, a new courage and faith is abroad in England, a feeling that this "isle set in the silver sea" has not lost its vitality, its intrepid courage, its love of adventure, its ability to fight. The fact is that British sportsmanship has been awakened by the war, and this has given the conflict a color, interest and enthusiasm which it did not have six months ago.

Above all, the last few months have brought a new pride to England. The battle of the River Platte, the exploits of the destroyer "Cossack", the flight of the R.A.F. over Germany, the battles of the simple fishermen with the German air-bombers, the successful struggle of the mine-sweepers against the magnetic mine — all these have aroused a new pride and have created a new spirit in the country.

One sees evidence of this spirit on every step; in the outburst of enthusiasm

BEAUTY CULTURE FOR FARM HOMES

The oft-quoted line from Thomas Hood, "I remember, I remember, the house where I was born", and another by William Cowper, "Be it a weakness, it deserves some praise, we love the play-place of our early days", touch a responsive chord in the hearts of those who cherish the memory of that childhood home of long ago.

These lines occurred to the present writer as he listened to a remarkable address by C. H. Hodge, editor of the Farmer's Magazine, Toronto, on the occasion of a recent meeting of the Quebec Horticultural Federation, in Montreal. The topic was the beautification of farm homes in Ontario, and with the aid of colored lantern slides the speaker described the transformation of the homes of those who entered competitions sponsored by his paper. Indeed, credit for the idea and its realization belongs to Mr. Hodge.

As Mr. Hodge expressed it, we owe our children the enduring memory of an attractive home, one that in after years they can recall with pleasure and pride, and child's most impressionable years are between 5 and 12. "With a Glance Backward", by the late, highly esteemed Dean E. A. Howes, of Edmonton, records most entertainingly and picturesquely the scenes and events of his childhood in Ontario.

Mr. Hodge showed how marvellously the appearance of a farm home can be improved by a little trimming and painting, by tidying up around it, giving some care to the lawn and especially by planting flowers. The other day the writer heard of a man who offered a house for sale at $3,000 and found no bidder. He then spent $40.00 on a paint job and sold the house easily for $4,000.00.

Painters of another color may deplore the appearance of a silo on the farm because, they say, it means no more pumpkins among the corn, and poets may rave about the tumble-down shack somewhere, Byron said of Italy: "The very weeds are beautiful, try waste more rich than other climes' fertility". But surely more beauty and charm attach to the home of peace and plenty.

The Ontario Crop Improvement Association has for its slogan: "Better rural conditions through crop improvement." It is a strange anomaly that many a farmer who takes great pleasure and pride in his thriving field crops, cultivated and fertilized

WEED CONTROL IN SEEDING DOWN

There are several approaches to weed control in seeding down. First is the place in rotation. Non-nurse-crop seedings may be made at any stage following a part-season fallow but nurse-crop seedings come best in the first year after the fallow.

The part-season fallow may extend until mid-June but non-nurse crop seedings made after that date are usually handicapped. When a nurse crop is used early seeding, or at least early removal of the nurse crop, is important. The pre-seeding weed control is very important but the few weeds that are bound to come in any seeding may prove troublesome in thin or untimely stands of forage crops, states E. C. Stacey, Dominion Experimental Substation, Beaverlodge, Alberta. The fall should be reasonably firm at seeding time. Thick seedings are preferred to thin ones in most cases.

While crops like brome will gradually fill in thin or patchy stands, others, such as alfalfa and Western ryegrass may become thinned by winter killing and root rot, leaving stands which were originally complete rather patchy and extending an invitation for intruders to come in. If seed production is aimed at, pure stands are advised but otherwise the suitable mixtures suppress weeds better. Alfalfa-seeded alone is one of the poorest weed fighters among our common forage crops. Brome makes a good complement to alfalfa, while sweet clover serves as a temporary ally for most perennials. Timothy and crested wheat grass occupy their stands quite rapidly, thus tending to check annual weeds in the year of seeding. Legumes are quite prone to cutworm attacks both in the initial and subsequent years.

If a nurse crop is used it should not compete too strongly. The Beaverlodge Substation has secured much better results from using Oll instead of Havnchen barley for the purpose. Any variety which makes only moderate growth and matures early would seem to be preferred as a nurse crop. Post-seeding attention should proceed on the knowledge that a strong, healthy stand resists weed and disease infestation. Accordingly overgrazing and too frequent cutting should be avoided.

The World of Wheat

H. G. L. Strang,
Director, Research Department,
Searle Grain Company, Ltd.

A week or so ago this column referred to an uncommonly good book written by Mme. Tabouis, on the life of Nebuchadnezzar, the King of Chaldaea, who reigned some 500 years B.C. Nebuchadnezzar, Mme. Tabouis tells us, became a great world conqueror. He subdued the Kingdoms of Assyria, Dania, the Medes, Jerusalem and of the Jews and a number of others, including Mesopotamia, and then he obtained control of the lands which opened up into the Mediterranean. Nebuchadnezzar, however, held one important principle in mind in all these great conquests, which our statesmen of the modern world, it would seem, might well meditate upon.

Nebuchadnezzar realized that the only way dominion over other lands and over other people could be transferred into wealth and satisfaction for his own people was, as he put it, "By the normal working of economic

So SCIENCE MADE THIS BETTER OIL

In the more powerful engines in today's cars, trucks and tractors, oil has to be tough to stand the punishment. The New Marvelube, developed in Imperial Oil research laboratories, is specially engineered for these faster, hotter-running engines of today.

Marvelube has long been a leader among motor oils. The New Marvelube retains all the original high qualities—now it also goes through new refining processes which make it even tougher, cleaner and more heat-resistant than before.

So the New Marvelube lasts longer. Your oil bills are lower.

It keeps any engine cleaner, livelier. You get more power from the fuel you use. Upkeep costs are reduced to a minimum.

Take advantage of the new savings this better oil brings. See your Imperial Oil agent about the New Marvelube.

New COOLING SYSTEM for Summer LARKSPUR BLUE WINDOW SHADES

Even the name sounds lovely and cool, doesn't it? We can't think of anything that makes a room look and feel cooler than soft clear blue Larkspur window shades. The color itself (it's absolutely new) is soothing to the eyes, besides keeping out the glare of the hot summer sun. Just imagine how charming Larkspur blue will look in a living room with curtains of white, cream, yellow or blue. They'll be particularly splendid for your bedrooms to keep light and heat from your own and your children's eyes. In fact, you can't see why they wouldn't be ideal for your kitchen as well.

Most for your kitchen as well. We've discovered these are exceptionally fine woven cloth window shades that have been "processed" for long life. That actually means they won't crumple up after several years of wear. It means also that they won't fade out after several years of wear. You'll be able to order them at every good department store window shade shop. Don't forget their charming name—Larkspur blue!

STANDING UP TO OUR OBLIGATIONS

In very truth, as Dr. Henry Van Dyke has said, "courage is the standing army of the soul," points out the Brooks Bulletin.

The youthful David going forth to meet the dread champion of the Philistines; Horatius facing the Etruscan army before the entrance to the bridge to Rome, alone and unafraid;
the six hundred British light cavalrymen charging the Russian army at Balaclava—these bring a lift to the spirit.

For a while, at least, he who reads of them is one of the goodly company of the stout-hearted.

Men have always cherished courage and made it one of the dominant themes of literature, so building up a common fund upon which all may draw. And they have builded up, too, an unwritten code that courage shall be a currency of character that is everywhere and always accepted at par.

And such a spirit is what is necessary in the re-organizing of the long-dormant Board of Trade. For each advancement or improvement in our circumstances and surroundings courage will be needed to push any and every project to its full consummation for the benefit of all concerned.
No matter what the citizens of Wainwright and its surrounding district may deem desirable, provided it is judiciously and sensibly obtainable, it can be attained by all working together to that end. "Only brave fish swim upstream," wrote John M. Lee, and millions have responded to the teaching of those words, and accomplished great things by its inspiration.

Our newly-organized Board of Trade, given the full support which such a body deserves and needs, can truly do much for the district as a whole, and be instrumental in bringing improvements and a higher state of living to its inhabitants only inas-far as each gives the Board their full support in order that it may live up to its obligations.

COURTESY CAN'T BE OVERDONE!

AND STILL ACCIDENTS CON-TINUE! Owing to either disregard, sheer contempt, or a deliberate "devil take the hindmost" spirit of car owners and drivers, accidents—accidents as well as small—still continue to be recorded as the week-end toll.

Except in very rare cases these occurrences might all be avoided by the exercise of due and watchful courtesy and although much has been said and written regarding this, one cannot say too much.

The average person feels kindly towards his fellow man. He may not have been always trained to so express himself, but it soon becomes apparent to everyone that courtesy makes friends and keeps them.

We have seen signs reading:
"Courtesy Fays". There is some satisfaction in stopping your car and signalling others to stop to let another car or a pedestrian cross in front. Have you ever tried this only to have another car pass at the right and thus endanger the one you have tried to help?

Isn't there some satisfaction in having the person you have helped out of a tight spot wave you "thanks" just as plainly as if you had heard him (or her) say "Thanks, old man," or the equivalent?

It is unfortunate that we are so far removed from the old habits of etiquett. Today we think and talk of Regulation, Enforcement and Traffic
Laws; and yet we are a long way from the old feeling of true sportsmanship!

Courtesy does pay! It would prevent many accidents and save lots of arguing.

ADVERTISING
CUTS COSTS

Advertising makes products widely known and thus makes possible mass production, which in turn results in improved quality at lower prices.

Another factor that is most important is turnover, which is three to ten times as great on advertised products as on unadvertised products. The next time somebody tries to kid you into thinking that the consumer is paying an exorbitant price for well-known and well advertised brands, just give him these facts:

The advertising cost on a nationally advertised brand of soup is 17/100 of a cent per can.

On a popular soap, 3/100 of a cent per cake.

On a bed sheet, retailing for $1.75,
the cost is 1 cent.

On a shirt, retailing for $1.95, the advertising expense is only 64/100 of a cent per shirt.

On a well-known brand of crackers that you buy for 10 cents, the advertising expense is 1/10 of a cent.

That famous breakfast food you hear so much about, that sells for 35 cents per package, costs you only 3/10
of a cent for advertising.

And here is the best one of all, we have heard many comments on this one and you probably have too. When you purchase a 5-cent glass of the best known of soft drinks, the enormous sum that you pay for advertising is 1.576/100,000 of a cent.

These figures knock all the arguments against advertising into the proverbial cocked hat.

The above is a very fine argument by Mr. Charles H. Jensen appearing in Minneapolis Graphic Arts Industry
News for March 1, 1940.

Exports to Bermuda
Increase in 1939

Ottawa.—Tourist traffic from Canada to Bermuda has decreased considerably because of the war but for the same reason Canadian exports to the islands have risen by 3.5 per cent. In 1939 from the previous year, the trade and commerce department said in a report from the Canadian trade commissioner at New York, D. S. Cole.

Canada was the only country to increase its exports to Bermuda in 1939.
Valued at $1,298,272, they represent 16.4 per cent. of the total imports by the islands.

Society Girl Turns
Detective for Joke

Goated to be a super-sophisticated comedy murder mystery, this fea-ture's impressive production mountings, veins of genuine humor and potentially fine cast will prove popular entertainment to those who visit the Elite theatre next Monday, Tuesday

Stanwyck and Henry Fonda. Miss Stanwyck portrays a wild-eyed society girl who uncovers a murder but can't enlist police aid because she has previously hoaxed them on several occasions. Fonda berates her in his newspaper and Miss Manton, suing him for libel, sets out to prove herself
as a sleuth, winding up not only suc-

ENGLAND IN THE 15th CENTURY

Two hundred years earlier, England established the art of brewing commercially. It was at this time the water of Burton on the Trent began to be famous. The monks were first to discover the secret of this famous water. There is a document, dated 1485, in which it is stated that Matilda, daughter of Nicolas de Thoben, had released to the Abbot of Burton certain tenements. In return she was granted daily for life, two loaves, two gallons of BEER and a penny, besides seven gallons of BEER for the men.

—AND TODAY

More and more people are learning anew how BEER contributes to better living. It offers companionship when you're alone . . . fellowship when among friends and an economical, sensible flourish to the hospitality that graces your home.

SYDENHAM

Mrs. F. Church returned home from Calgary on Saturday last, after a visit to her aunt.

Wilfred Croftan has been suffering from a cold this week.

Mrs. Williams' mother came up from Ribstone and is now enjoying a visit with her daughter and grandson.

Several horses were sold last week for army purposes.

The beef ring will begin operation in the near future.

After what seemed like a never-ending winter, many farmers began work on their land last Monday.

GREENSHIELDS

We are glad to report that Miss Alleen Murray was able to return home from hospital early last week.

Only about twenty members of the Greenshields Go-Getters Club met at the hall on Tuesday evening. Quite a lengthy business meeting was followed by enjoyable entertainment furnished by Messrs. R. Hayward and R. Carl. They also supplied and served the splendid lunch.

Miss Jacee Jackson journeyed to town by train on Friday to visit brother Marvin, who is now progressing favorably in the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tokar are enjoying their Ford coupe, just recently purchased.

Messrs. R. I. Bond and M. Dixon, of Heath, were business visitors in the city Monday.

Miss Mary Hess spent the week end at her home in Manville.

Rev. T. E. Armstrong held church service in the school on Sunday. It is to be hoped more interest will be taken in these services now that the roads are passable and weather more settled.

Sheepskin Flats

Mrs. L. Tondy visited over the week end with Mrs. L. Wallace.

Mrs. and Mrs. Art Beckman visited on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Roberts.

The bean supper at White Cloud was enjoyed by all.

We are glad to see Dave Gardiner back at school again.

Mr. Floyd Meyer had the misfortune to fall in the river last week. No damage was done.

We offer our deepest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Dick McEwen in their bereavement.

Scenic Highway to Columbia Icefield

While mountain resorts of Europe are closed to travelling public there is now accessible a tourist attraction in the Canadian Rockies which rivals anything of its kind in the world. It is the Columbia Icefield highway, which has been open from Jasper, Alberta, to the Icefield for two years, and now has been extended south another 75 miles to Banff, Alberta. The official opening of this through motor road is scheduled for July 1.

Commenting on the highway, C. K. Howard, manager of the Tourist and Convention Bureau, Canadian National Railways, points out that Columbia Icefield covers 110 square miles of mountain area in the Canadian Rockies and is one of the most awe-inspiring sights in the world. It has long been of historical and scientific interest but until the motor road from Jasper was built, only those willing to make a 10-day trip in the saddle were able to see this great relic of the Ice Age.

The highway from Jasper Park Lodge in Jasper National Park leads to the foot of Athabasca Glacier, which is situated the new Columbia Icefield chert. Nearby are Snow Dome, Kitchener and other snow-peaks, all welded into the inseparable mass, binding these mountains of more than 11,000 feet.

Canada's Parks Big War Asset

Canadians have regarded their 19 national parks as tourist assets but now with war, strange as it may sound, Canada's parks are war assets. said Robert J. C. Sted, superintendent of publicity of the National Parks Bureau of Ottawa, in an interview. The Canadian novelist claimed Canada's national parks will be a lure to American tourists this year more than ever before. These tourists will bring American funds to spend in Canada which will provide a precious foreign exchange for Canada in her war effort, he said.

HEATH

Mr. and Mrs. Adelard Touchette and daughter were visiting relatives in the district during the week.

Jim Ford is expected home from the hospital this week. The banjo player at Heath is one of those being taken over by the Alberta Pacific company.

Mr. Sted urged that Canadians stress that their country, while close to and a good neighbour of the United States, was a different country. He believed it was unwise that Canadians endeavor to emphasize the similarity of Canada and the United States. Tourists want to see something different and by stressing the individuality of Canada, a greater lure is built up for American tourists. Every one of Canada's parks is popular with tourists, and adding to their popularity, to their greater usefulness, especially in the west, is the new 189-mile gravelled highway that will connect Banff and Lake Louise in the Banff national park to the north in Jasper national park.

Extends CBC Wartime Service

A new CBC National Network feature which is designed to keep Canadian listeners in intimate touch with developments at home and overseas, is "English Newsletter"—Thursday, 5:30 p.m., CST (4:30 p.m., MST). The broadcast, direct from England to the CBC shortwave receiving station at Ottawa, "English Newsletter," will bring a first-hand account of wartime conditions and developments in the Old Country, and will include occasional talks by persons prominent in British public life, and by Canadians who are in England. The series was inaugurated on April 25th in a talk from London by Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Defense for Canada.

The CBC now has two overseas units with the Canadian troops in England. Through the regular Monday evening broadcast, "With the Troops in England," direct to Canada from overseas, and through such special actuality broadcasts as the Changing of the Guard at Buckingham Palace by Canadian troops, the CBC is endeavoring to maintain a continuous contact between the troops and their homeland. Broadcasts from Canada to the soldiers of the C.A.S.F.—including sports events and actualities of Canadian scenes and voices—are counteracting through the modern magic of radio, the feeling of separation and distance from home.

Federal Cabinet To Meet Shortly

Ottawa.—Post election vacations are drawing to a close for the cabinet and before the end of the present week Prime Minister King probably will assume nearly all his ministers around the cabinet table. Then will the finishing touches be applied to the government's program for the parliamentary session which opens May 16.

The prime minister visited Washington this week and is expected back in Ottawa shortly. Trade Minister Euler, also vacationing, is expected back Tuesday and on him will fall the chief responsibility of deciding whether any new measures should be taken regarding the marketing of wheat.

THE PROBLEMS OF THE LATE SPRING

Snow and rain have caused extensive delays in the commencement of spring work and in many districts of the province it may be the first week where it has been planned to begin. Every available measure should be taken to overcome the delay which has occurred in starting spring work. All machinery and equipment to be used during the spring should be thoroughly repaired and be in condition to withstand a long period of intensive use. Everything should be done to prevent unnecessary delays resulting from break-downs.

Changes in proposed cultural practices may be advisable. It may be desirable to use a disc or a cultivator where it has been planned to plough. The possibility of using fertilizer to hasten germination and assist early ripening should not be overlooked. Although most seed is now ready for sowing, in some cases it may be possible to substitute earlier varieties Red Bone Thatcher and Howard wheat, Legacy oats, Oil barley and Red Wing flax are among the early recommended varieties of these grains.

Heavier rates of seeding might also be considered in order to help to control weed growth and bring about earlier maturity. All seed should be properly cleaned and treated with mercurial dusts such as Ceresan and Leytossan, so that they will be ready for the drill.

It may be well to consider the substitution of certain crops, or at least decreasing their acreage, for others. In some districts early maturing barley or oats may be substituted for wheat.

Harry Albert Scott, formerly Canadian Trade Commissioner in Liverpool, Buenos Aires, Shanghai, has been appointed Secretary to the Supervisory Board of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan. This board includes representatives of Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand, as well as Canadian officials.

Alberta Watching Oil Issue British Columbia

Alberta government authorities on Monday last turned eyes toward British Columbia where the B.C. government and oil firms are fighting over an order slashing wholesale petroleum price by three cents a gallon.

Reports could not be confirmed that B.C. interests had opened negotiations to buy Alberta products, which would be hauled by truck. Some authorities said that, it would not be surprising if haulage started by truck from Turner Valley into B.C.

Authorities estimate that cost of delivering Alberta oil by rail at Vancouver, inclusive of 10 cents a gallon in tank cars at the Calgary refinery, would be 17.8 cents a gallon on track.

The Editor—

Dear Sir: I have noticed that farmers are being asked to be loyal and patriotic to the country by producing all they can as their war effort while the boys are fighting overseas. I might say that the farmers have been loyal and patriotic for the last ten years and have produced an over-supply of foodstuffs at under cost and are still doing our best under present discouraging conditions. Those of us who sold our wheat to the Wheat Board received approximately 37 cents a bushel, which did not cover cost of production. Up to now we have not received any further payment. We believe those who have faith in the government at Ottawa should appeal to it to be loyal and patriotic to the farmers of the Western Provinces by paying them some more on their wheat, which will enable them to be more loyal and patriotic to our country.

Yours truly,

FARMER.

HILLS OF DESTINY

BY AGNES LOUISE PROVOST

CHAPTER XI

"Just what I say." The tone was still defiant, but the stamp of a small foot was a passionate admission of defeat. "I go to his cabin, I dance for him and make him catch me in his arms when I know you will be there to see."

"But Josefa! How could you know that I would be there to see you?"

"Oh, that Stanley!" Josefa's angry shrug told all the rest. "That pest! I am one beguiling temptress to believe what he says. I am glad he got shot. He 'ang' round me wance too much. Hah, but he get beg scare! He run away like silly rabbit!"

Josefa's scornful laugh broke off abruptly. She bent her head slightly as she was listening, faint and intent.

"Josefa, you don't know what you have done for me. I want to thank you for telling me."

Josefa drew back resentfully. "I do not do it for you. I hate you! I do it for Lee."

Again the very look came. She turned as silently as she had come and vanished down an almost invisible trail.

Virginia listened also, with shining eyes.

A little later, when Brimstone had scrambled up the last grade, Lee saw her beside the black horse, her face turned toward him and one hand stroking Black Lightning's astute neck.

He heard a sharp, indrawn breath. "It's too late." She hurried on desperately. "I want to, Lee; I wish I could, but I can't. I signed the deed this morning."

For the space of about ten seconds he stared at her. Then he turned abruptly and walked a few steps away toward the grey rim rock which looked down on the Circle V. Bradish's Circle V now. Virginia watched him miserably. She found herself explaining in a dead, monotonous voice. "I went down to meet Mr. Bradish. He came to see Stanley, but he knew I was ready to sell and he had telegraphed ahead for Mr. Morse to have the deed ready. We went direct from the station to Mr. Morse's office. And when it was done, she continued, dully, 'I was sorry. The thought of leaving the Circle V to strangers—and never coming back—tore me into little shreds. And so I came up here.'"

He swung around and came back to her.

"But if you felt that way, why did you do it? Was it money, or something else? I've got to know, Virginia."

Hot color came. It was not easy, but she looked straight at him and made her honest confession.

"I was angry. I believed things about you that weren't true. I think I wanted to hurt you."

He was taking a folded slip of paper from his pocket.

"This is the check you gave her this morning. I'm asking you to take it back and destroy the deed she gave you."

From the other side of the room Stanley grinned derisively at this extraordinary request, but Milton Bradish did not smile. He favored his visitor with a contemptuous stare.

"You've got less brains than I thought," he snapped. "Business isn't done that way."

"Then you refuse?"

"Certainly. It was a bona fide transaction, the property is mine and I mean to keep it."

"Then I'm afraid I shall have to tell you that your deed is worthless. Matt Bradish had only a half ownership of the Circle V to will to his daughter. He's the other owner, and no deed can pass without my signature."

"Prove it!" Bradish's face was purple.

"I have the deed with me. I always carry it because your friend Stanley Gano has a habit of going through my cabin when he thinks I'm not around. The deed was made out while I was away, only a short time before Matt died. He wrote me about it, but the letter missed me and I didn't know he had it. He said that he had done it as a proof of his affection and confidence, and that I was to come back and the two of us were to run the place in full partnership and make a big thing of it. The deed was folded and kept in Judge Harvey's safe. In confidence, to be given to nobody but me, or to Matt himself. I've played a waiting game to protect Virginia's rights, whether I kept the title to my half or turned it back to her, but she has promised to marry me. I think that matter will take care of itself."

He looked puzzled. "That shooting business?"

"No... yes, that was part of it. But I mean the girl—that pretty child. She was just here, Lee. She said 'No.'"

"Oh... Josefa." Lee was faintly embarrassed. "She's just a kid, he said apologetically. Then he drew a long breath and came a step nearer. "And now, Virginia?"

"Oh, Lee, don't you know—by this time the little later she raised her head from a flannel shirted shoulder. They smiled at each other.

"I love you," he declared, "a million times more every minute."

He stopped short at the stricken look on her face.

"Oh, don't be nice to me." She buried her face in his shoulder with a smothered wail. "I hate myself! To think that I've sold it—when you love it so."

"Is that the trouble?" He put a hand under her chin, and for a moment studied her shadowed eyes. "It looks," he said thoughtfully, "as if we'd better get it back again. Let's get down to cases. Was it a cash transaction? Did he give you a check?"

She nodded, looking perplexed.

"Yes. But Lee—"

"Did you deposit it?"

"No. Somehow I couldn't."

"Good!" He laughed under his breath. "Don't worry, honey. We're going down right now to persuade your Steam Roller Bradish to tear up that deed."

"But I've signed it. I've given my word. You can't do such a thing."

"You underestimate my powers of persuasion." He grinned at her, suddenly gray. He saw her anxious look and laughed again, picking her up for a steady, heady kiss and putting her neatly down.

"Don't be alarmed. I'm just going to convince him that he wants to give it back. Bet you a wedding ring that I can."

Quebec Expects Banner Tourist Season

The Great Gates of Quebec's ancient city wall—originally designed to discourage hostile invasions—will be thrown open this summer for a large scale tourist invasion, expected to top all previous records. With most of Europe's Old World charms affected by wartime conditions, increased numbers of Canadians and Americans will take advantage of Quebec's chief attraction, the historic "Lower Town" and the Grand St. Lawrence.

Though possessing ideal facilities for practically every modern tourist, Quebec's chief attraction to the tourist lies in its Old World charm. Its narrow, winding streets, lofty spired churches, convents and quaint domed dwellings are reminiscent of medieval Normandy. Its not-so-peaceful years are recalled by battlefields, grim stone forts and ancient cannon.

Nearby points of interest include the Lorette Indian Reservation, the Isle d'Orleans, unspoiled by the rush of civilization, the Shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre, and the Montmorency Falls. For the sports enthusiast there are facilities for golf, tennis, and swimming, while miles of colorful highways beckon the motorist. Laurentide National Park, 30 miles from the City, is a paradise for fishermen, canoeists, campers and nature lovers.

Quebec City is easily accessible over Canadian Pacific lines, and is conveniently connected with important centres in eastern Canada and the United States.

The "Fun Quest" Thursday at 10.00 gives it in buckets full of fun. Not bad, either! There's no-thing stilted about Val's style, and if the audience likes informality, he takes her first radio role, and is heard as a young debutante in the dramatic serial, "Big Sister," heard from CICA Mondays through Fridays.

HELEN JEPSON

A Darn In Her Stocking Set Her Feet On The Ladder To Fame

Do you like Cinderella stories? Well, here is one that actually happened.

This is the story of a little girl who was once called "Fatty," but who grew up to be one of the most beautiful singers of all time.

This is the story of a little girl who was so poor she couldn't afford to take music lessons; yet she is now a prima donna in the Metropolitan Opera Company in New York City.

In 1930, this girl had no radio audience after another; and nobody wanted her. Four years later, the radio editors of America voted her the most important new radio personality of the year.

One season while I was broadcasting I often admired a beautiful platinum blonde sitting in the front row of the studio audience—a glamorous blonde with soft brown eyes, a stunning figure, and personal charm. Finally I met her—and discovered she was none other than the famous Helen Jepson, and that she was the wife of George Fossell, the late player in the orchestra.

I asked Helen Jepson what was the most astonishing thing she knew about herself and she said: "Well, most people are surprised to know I am married and have a baby."

When her baby was born, the nurse in the hospital put an identification tag around the baby's neck—a string of beads with the baby's name on it. Miss Jepson has had that tiny string of beads made into a bracelet and she wouldn't dream of taking it off.

She and another girl rented a room on the outskirts of the city. They had to walk up five flights, and on cold winter days, they sat on one another's feet and rocked back and forth to keep warm. They lighted candles and put them on the floor and imagined they had a fireplace. They had only fifty cents a day to spend on food, so they cooked their meals over a little gas burner. Sometimes they had nothing but corsets in a department store in Akron, Ohio. A dull job; but it enabled her to save nickels and dimes and go to Cleveland occasionally to take music lessons. She sang in the choir on Sundays, and sometimes dressed herself up in colonial costumes and sang before clubs and social organizations.

One day a business man heard her sing at the Rotary Club, heard her sing at the Y. W. C. A., and he decided to take her to Philadelphia. He needed a salesgirl to sell phonograph records in his store; so he gave her the job and changed the whole course of her life. In the music store, she played operatic records over and over again and tried to imitate them; and she sang with Jentira and Bori and Rosa Ponselle.

Finally, she had an opportunity to compete for a scholarship in the famous Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia. Should she go? It would take almost all her savings to buy a ticket to Philadelphia. She was only one of two hundred girls competing for the prize.

Nevertheless, she gambled on her future and went to Philadelphia. Some of the other two hundred contestants had voices just as sweet and clear and colorful as hers. But she had showmanship, the ability to sell herself, the ability to put her songs across. And then one of the judges noticed that Helen had a neat little darn in one of her stockings; and this judge liked girls who had sense enough to darn their stockings. So Helen Jepson won the scholarship.

She and another girl rented a room on the outskirts of the city. They had to walk up five flights, and on cold winter days, they sat on one another's feet and rocked back and forth to keep warm. They lighted candles and put them on the floor and imagined they had a fireplace. They had only fifty cents a day to spend on food, so they cooked their meals over a little gas burner. Sometimes they had nothing but soup for dinner; but they sang songs from La Boheme and imagined that they were in Paris. Hardships? Not a bit of it. They were having the time of their lives.

One of the things I admire most about Helen Jepson is the fact that success and fame and money haven't spoiled her. She is just as democratic and unassuming now as she was fifteen years ago when she was sweeping the floor and frying pork chops for her father back in Akron, Ohio.

A chemical formula has been discovered by two artists which is thought will revolutionize mural painting, for by keeping the walls from getting dry they can work longer. This achievement is credited to Elizabeth de Vecovi Whitman, a young New Yorker, in cooperation with a Mexican chemist, Miss Whitman, now only twenty-three, is a pupil of Diego Rivera, who is enthusiastic about the use of the new spray which permits an artist to work on a fresco for fifty-six hours. In all these years since Michelangelo painted his marvelous murals it has been impossible to work for a longer time than twenty-three hours before the materials dried.

The first woman to be officially named its outstanding citizen by the people of Troy, New York, is Miss Eliza Kelias, principal of Emma Willard School. She has received a plaque awarded each year by Temple Beth El Brotherhood to the person who has done most for the city.

The highest salary paid to a woman in a local government office is $12,000 to Miss Martha Byrne, Register of New York County. Mention is made of this in the National League of Women Voters' latest edition of its "Survey of Women in Public Office." The survey gives honor to Miss A. Viola Smith, American Trade Commissioner at Shanghai. Miss Smith was sent to China in 1907, first to Peking and two years later to Shanghai.

COOKIES FOR ALL

It's a wise mother who knows her children's taste in cookies and wiser still when she keeps the cookie jar well filled at all times. Cookies are the thing to feed to the whole crowd of youngsters when they get home from school because they take no preparation and are not messy to eat. They make a good finish for the children's light supper instead of dessert. Through we seem to associate cookies with childhood, adults like them too and dainty cookies are perfect aids to entertaining when friends drop in for afternoon tea or for an evening visit.

Chocolate Cookies

- 2 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- 3/4 cup butter or other shortening
- 3 cups unsweetened chocolate, melted
- 1-3 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1 tablespoon cream
- 1 cup sugar

Shift flour once, measure, add cinnamon, baking powder and soda and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, chocolate and cream, and beat well. Add flour, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Roll into thin sheet on slightly floured board. Cut with a floured cookie cutter and dredge with sugar. Place on ungreased baking sheet and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) nine minutes. Makes 2 1/2 dozen 3-inch cookies.

Chocolate Fruit Patties

- 1 cup sifted cake flour
- 1/2 teaspoon double-acting baking powder
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1/2 cup nut meats, chopped
- 4 tablespoons candied cherries, chopped
- 4 tablespoons candied pineapple, chopped
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2-3 cup sugar
- 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
- 1/2 cup seeded raisins, chopped
- 4 tablespoons melted butter or other shortening

Shift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Add sugar to eggs and beat until light; then add chocolate, nuts, fruit and butter. Add flour, mixing thoroughly. Drop from teaspoon on greased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 8 minutes. Makes 3 1/2 dozen patties.

Chocolate Marshmallow Fudge

- 3 cups granulated sugar
 - 1-3 cup (1 can) sweetened condensed milk
 - 3 squares unsweetened chocolate
 - 3/4 cup finely cut marshmallows
- Mix sugar, water and sweetened condensed milk in large saucepan. Cook over medium flame to 237° F. or until mixture will form firm ball when tested in cold water. Stir mixture constantly to prevent burning. Remove from fire add chocolate cut in small pieces. Add marshmallows. Beat at once until thick and creamy. Pour into buttered pan. When cool, cut into squares.

Magic Bonbons

- 1/2 cup sweetened condensed milk
 - 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
 - 1-2-3 cups sifted confectioners' (4X) sugar
- Blend sweetened condensed milk and vanilla. Add sifted confectioners' sugar gradually and continue mixing until smooth and creamy.

SAUSAGES ALWAYS SEASON-ABLE

Never think of pork sausage as merely a breakfast food. Of course, it is used in various tasty breakfast dishes, and but there are recipes for luncheon, dinner and the midnight

"snack" that call for this healthful food. These recipes furnish dishes suitable for any temperature or season. Try the following and you will have two "specials" for your year-round file:

Sausage Luncheon

- 16 cooked pork sausage links
 - Cooked asparagus tips
 - 8 pieces toast
 - 1/2 cup diced yellow cheese
 - 1 1/2 cups medium white sauce
- Arrange sausage links and asparagus tips alternately on a slice of toast, allowing 2 slices of toast to a serving. Serve with hot cheese sauce made by adding cheese to white sauce. Serves 4.

Sausage Omelette

- 3 cups stiff, tart applesauce
- 2 cups diced, cooked sweet potatoes
- 10 sliced cooked pork sausage links
- 1/2 cup flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons sausage drippings
- 6 uncooked sausage links

Combine applesauce, sweet potatoes and cooked pork sausage links and turn into casserole brushed with sausage drippings. Cover with drop biscuit dough made with flour, baking powder, salt, milk and sausage drippings. Decorate top with uncooked sausage links and slices of red-skinned apple. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) until well browned, about 30 minutes. Serves 4 to 6.

This dish, plus a simple salad (and a light dessert if you wish it) provides a complete meal. The necessity of preparing other vegetable dishes is eliminated.

Escalloped Onions and Cheese

- 2 cups small boiled onions
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 1/2 cup milk
- 3 cups milk
- 1/2 teaspoon paprika
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon celery salt
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1/2 cup cheese, cut in cubes

Melt butter in top of double boiler. Add flour and blend. Add milk slowly, stirring constantly. Add seasoning and cheese and cook until creamy, stirring constantly. Place cooked onions in buttered baking dish, pour over sauce, and bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven.

Speaking of pies, try adding a cup of shredded coconut to the next pumpkin pie you bake. Then when the custard is set but about five minutes before you take it from the oven, sprinkle a few tablespoons over the top. You can add plumped raisins and pumpkin pie too. Use about 1/2 cup to a pie and mix them in the crust before turning into crust.

Mince Pie

The early frost this year finished the fall canning and preserving with a bang so we can make mince meat earlier than usual. However, it's a good idea to let it ripen a few weeks before using, so it's just as well to make it in good season and have it ready for cold weather dinners.

Modern mince meat is a far cry from the concoction of our grandmothers. The old receipts called for a few raisins and spices to furnish flavor but the important ingredients were meat, apples, suet and cider. Some of them added a generous amount of "spice" to the use of this ingredient was spread just as it is today.

meat entirely and list nuts, candied fruits, dried fruits, preserves and fruit juices with a careful seasoning of sugar and spices as the materials for mince meat.

But for the sake of tradition and because it adds to the mince meat of us like to add meat to our mince meat, so here's a recipe—salty, fruity and spicy—

If you like the taste of old-fashioned parched corn meal, buy your meal by the box, and put in a shallow pan and put in a fire over for fifteen or twenty minutes. Occasionally stir it to prevent browning too much.

Beauty for YOU

The Secrets of Good Looks

SPRINGTIME BEAUTY

Now is the time to freshen up your skin, for the wintry weather and the stuffy, overheated homes have undoubtedly left their mark on your face, despite all your care.

Do some limbering-up exercises daily. Besides making your body more supple, exercises will help your circulation. Then pay attention to the normal functioning of your body. "An apple a day" is good, but I add "onions twice a week". Eat spinach and fresh green vegetables. And—this is important—several mornings a week take a dash of Khovah health salts in a glass of water on arising.

That's looking after the "inner woman", for you cannot look healthy if your system is misbehaving.

Now for the exterior. The face and neck should be creamed daily with Three-Purpose cream, a lovely cream that cleanses thoroughly, then acts as a foundation base for powder and can be used at bedtime as a massage cream.

Of course you must keep your skin immaculately clean. The best way to ensure this is to wash with warm water and palmolive soap. Rinse with cold water—as cold as you can stand it.

Have a face mask once a week. The two tablespoons of yogurt or cream, four tablespoons of glycerine and two tablespoons of rose water.

Mix to a thin paste and apply to the face and neck evenly with an up and out stroke. Allow to harden. When thoroughly dry, rinse off with lukewarm water.

Send four one-cent stamps for my informative booklet on Beauty Care, and ask about your personal problems too. Address: Miss Barbara Lynn, Box 75, Station B, Montreal, Que.

DESIGNED AS THE HOME OF A FUSSY FAMILY

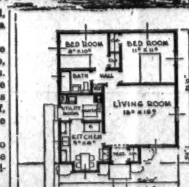

There once was a man who said, "You'll not catch me owning a home. I have headaches enough." So he rented a house on the edge of town. It was not a new house, but it had all the necessary rooms. But after a few weeks, his wife complained that since there was really no closet space to speak of she thought they'd better buy one or two large wardrobes.

So they did. They bought two huge "armories" that required the most-favored wall space in the bedrooms.

The house, of course, didn't have automatic heat, so every morning and every night, the man would go down into the depths of the cellar, move a good many iron parts, and talk loudly and eloquently to the heating plant.

Then, when the wind blew, the windows would rattle like peas in a dry pot and puff drafts would sweep across the floor. Of course, the house wasn't insulated.

Countless minor things irritated the man. Doors wouldn't shut tightly, the grass wouldn't grow—no enough topsoil—the hot water tap in the bathroom only dribbled.

Still, the rent was cheap, and being human, they gradually accustomed themselves to the house.

But at the end of a few years, the house needed painting. He spoke to the landlord about it—as he had done so frequently—but the landlord only shrugged his shoulders.

"I'm not making enough on your rent to paint it this season."

Well, the man got so mad that he went home and went into conference with his wife. And three months later to the day they moved into this house.

It is a good house. It was designed by Randolph Evans—who is a small house specialist—for the Monthly Small House Club at 237 East 6th Street in New York. Because this house is designed to last to be living-proof, it is built with long-lived materials. To prevent drafts and cold walls in winter and unbearably hot bedrooms in summer, both the walls and top floor ceiling are insulated with fireproof mineral wool. Non-rusting water pipes always run full and stainless, ample closets provide plenty of storage space, and brightly colored asphalt shingles fire-protect the roof. Designed to build for less than $3,000, it sits on a 40 foot lot and still leaves room for a driveway should a garage be added.

NEWS & VIEWS OF TOWN AND DISTRICT

BORN.—To Mr. and Mrs. D. Stinson, at the Wainwright municipal hospital, on April 26th, a girl.

BORN.—To Mr. and Mrs. R. Trevartha, at the Misericordia hospital in Edmonton, on April 26th, a boy.

We learn that Mr. H. Ruste has bought the Chas. Horn farm west of town during the past week.

YOU are invited to join the Board of Trade—business men and farmer alike—and to attend the luncheon at the hotel on Monday next, May 6th, at 12 noon. Dutch treat, 50c each.

Mr. W. Fisher has moved to the Morton farm near the river, and Harry Driver is operating the Hamilton farm, formerly the home of Mr. Fisher.

Trucks were not allowed on the secondary roads since the recent sudden thaw, but now the roads are rapidly drying, except for a few wet places. Travelling is now possible, and cars are coming into town from all directions. The city bus resumed its run on Monday.

Quite a number of farmers are plowing on the high land, although many of the fields are so wet that tractors cannot be operated yet. It is hoped and expected that Spring work will be general by the end of this week, and a large amount of power machinery will soon be busy putting in the crop.

While automobile insurance in Alberta is not compulsory, if you have an accident which causes a $25 loss the judge may suspend your license, and it cannot be re-instated until you take out insurance. It is difficult to place insurance once the license has been suspended, and then only at a much higher rate and after investigation and delay. This is only one of the many reasons why you should carry insurance and see Joe Welch about this. He specializes in this protection.

A crew of oilmen left last week end to start the season for the Stevens-Wilson outfit near Vermilion. Among them were W. Prosser, E. Ganderton, R. Hartling, C. Abernethy, A. Gunn and P. Rutherford.

Mr. C. Stafford, of the Atlas Lumber Co., visited his family at Viking over the past week end.

Miss C. Currie was the lucky winner in the Congoleum Rug contest put on by the McLeod furniture store. The winning number was 2455, and Miss Currie guessed 2455.

The public is becoming car-accident conscious and much of the court's time is engaged in these cases. Insurance in Alberta is still low and all car owners should carry this protection. Call on Joe Welch and get this protection. It is unsafe and unwise to be without it. Have the whole thing explained by Joe Welch at the Atlas yard; or phone 57 or 58.

Through being kicked by a colt last week, Mr. Stan Baker is suffering a fractured arm, which is very awkward at this time of year.

COMING EVENTS

A Silver Tea under the auspices of St. Thomas' (Ang.) W.A. will be held at the home of Mrs. A. H. Adams on Saturday, May 4th, from 3 to 5 p.m. Everyone is invited, and this is YOUR personal invitation to attend.

The Catholic L.A. invite you to a Mothers' Day Tea and Home Cooking Sale to be held in McLeod's Furniture Store on Saturday afternoon, May 11th. All are welcome.

Leaving on Sunday's westbound, Mr. and Mrs. W. Knowles plan to spend a three-weeks' vacation at the coast in order for Mr. Knowles to regain strength from a run-down condition of health.

Mrs. J. Stinert and family, who have been holidaying in the East, have now returned home.

During the past week a couple of men from Quebec have been scouring the district in a quest for horses to purchase for the French army.

Patrons of the Elite theatre pictures on Wednesdays (1st and 3rd) and thus assist with the Red Cross funds.

On a short visit to his parents here, Mr. D. Wallace arrived on Saturday last. He will leave to take up duties at the 'Hoyal Alexandra hospital in Edmonton in a few days.

Mr. Carl Brunner arrived here from Turner Valley last week end, and it is rumored that a large rotary oil-drill is to be unloaded here shortly for work in this field.

Quite a large number of men are now busy in the National Park removing all the cross fencing in the area. The boundary fences are to remain in place.

Did you know you can buy an insurance policy that will pay your estate $1,000 if killed, or pay $25 per week and all your doctor's and hospital bills if you are struck or injured in any way by a car, for the small sum of $3.00 per year. See Joe Welch and get this protection.

Having finished his term at the university, Mr. E. Armstrong arrived home last week end for the summer vacation.

The home formerly owned by Mr. C. Rowe on Second Avenue west, is being remodelled for the new owner, Mr. H. Baint, of the C.N.R. staff.

Rev. Father Meehan, of Lac la Biche, has been transferred to Wainwright district and will have charge of St. John's, Fabian and Irma missions of the Catholic church. He will make his home with Rev. Father Egan, who is in charge of Wainwright parish.

Don't neglect an insurance policy on your car; it is the wisest protection as soon as you get on the road. Joe Welch, insurance agent.

Both Ed Moore and Bill McBeth are again employed at the Gold Standard refinery for the season.

Mrs. T. Lane was in Edmonton for a day or so on a visit to friends last week.

Having reached possibly its highest level in the past ten years, the Battle River at Pabayan is now getting back to normal, although running a wonderful lot of water under the bridges.

Among the local folks home from university at the term closing are Messrs. E. Wallace, I. Jackson and E. Lane. Miss L. Bloom is also among the number, as is Miss E. Graham.

After a long holiday with friends at the coast, Mrs. A. Robinson returned home on Saturday's train.

Want your suits and clothes cleaned for Spring? Then have Miles' Transport call and take them to the city. Right work; right prices. Phone 72.

A leaflet dealing with the forest tent caterpillar (which, it is predicted, will be very prevalent this summer) has been prepared by Prof. E. Strickland, of Alberta university, and may be obtained upon request from the extension department of that institution.

Empire Youth Day is to be observed next Sunday by all churches across Canada, with a special service being broadcast from London, Eng.

Monday next, May 6th, has been set as Arbor Day for the province.

Thanks to the generosity of Mr. W. Brunner, 50 per cent. of the proceeds of the show at the Elite Theatre are to be donated to the local Red Cross each first and third Wednesdays, and patrons are asked to note this act accordingly.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Greer were trippers to Edmonton last week end.

As a sign of Spring, the tennis courts in town were in full use on Sunday last.

Rev. T. Armstrong, pastor of the United church here, will be the special preacher at the United church at Fort Saskatchewan on Sunday next. His pulpit here will be supplied from Edmonton.

We are informed that Mr. Tom Heathfield has purchased the Earl Pricketton home on Fourth Avenue east during the past week.

Replacing Wallace Ratray as clerk at the Safeway Store, Chas. Wear, Jr., started his new job on Monday.

The local Red Cross society held a successful street bridge party in the Masonic Hall on Wednesday, April 24. A war-time lunch was served. Prizes of flour and sugar, in keeping with these times, were awarded to: Miss M. Tolmie, Mrs. Middlemass, Mr. Joe Keenan and Mr. C. Reynolds.

In receiving a letter from Mr. Alex Wilkie, who left last winter to reside in Scotland, with his subscription renewal, we are pleased to note that the health of both he and Mrs. Wilkie continues good, and they are enjoying life although in the war zone.

Miss D. Forster was a tripper to the city last week to enjoy the demonstration of P.T. by the local bunch on their visit there.

On Sunday last the members of the P.T. class closed out the season with a hike and treasure hunt over the river hills north of Fabian. A large bountiful and sing-song later in the day closed an enjoyable outing.

Everyone is heartily invited to join in the luncheon which the newly-organized Board of Trade will hold at the hotel on Monday next at 12 noon sharp. Join the Board and help in the enterprises which it hopes to carry through. Tickets for the lunch are 50c, and both business men and farmers are looked for in good numbers.

WHEAT PAYMENTS

Regina.—Announcement that he has recommended changes in the Canada Wheat Board Act was made recently by Hon. J. G. Gardiner, federal minister of agriculture. If they are adopted, an interim payment plan will be provided for wheat delivered to the Board. This will mean that farmers will receive the initial 70 cents per bushel when the wheat is delivered and an additional payment when the Board had accumulated sufficient money to warrant such action, said the minister. This will remove the present necessity of waiting until the grain is all sold. Mr. Gardiner also suggested that participation certificates now held by grain growers be made negotiable.
